LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

It's August, Let's Go to the Beach!

We are in the midst of Summer, my favorite season, and I look with anticipation to my time at the Beach. Sun, giver of life, warm on my face, cold water lapping at my feet. We all love the beach, love the communing with friends and nature, link to our pasts, and plan for our future. What is it about the beach that lifts us up out of our daily lives and let's us touch a higher spirit and deeper understanding?

For me, the beach evokes three memories: personal, cultural, and that of a species. My personal memories are of my father in a sailor's cap and white swim trunks, bronzing in the sun, never entering the water while my brother and I made castles and moats at the water's edge: elaborate efforts to be carried away by the tide. As a species, we return to the water's edge and reflect upon how the migration of our progenitors out of the primordial sea started us on the road to knowledge and being. We return to the site of our tentative emergence into consciousness with wistfulness and reflection (perhaps desire for the contentment that lack of awareness brings?) Culturally, the water's edge is where we began, and we have not ventured far from the Greek ideals of almost 2700 years ago.

Pythagoras walked here and scratched his theorems in the sand. Demosthenes orated above the roar of the waves (inspiring Patrick Henry). For almost all of us, our ancestors arrived on our shores by boat, stepping across the beach to begin new lives. Our society was preserved by our fathers who died on the beaches of Normandy 70 years ago so that we could live as free people.

In many parts of the world, the best land is a private preserve, and those without privilege may not enjoy the recreation I enjoy today. I sit on the beach and reflect how the water's edge is a public space. Private persons and companies may build structures near the water, but the zone from water's edge to high tide is public space and may not be impaired. I share the beach with others representing all areas of our society; rich and poor, all races, young and old, and we are creating our Community of Beach dedicated to peaceful enjoyment.

Greek philosophers speak of a continuous political evolution from democracy to oligarchy to monarchy. Our country was founded by a revolution against monarchy, setting up an experiment in democracy that had not been experienced in the world for the previous 1500 years. Our notion of the beach is particularly democratic, with the interests of the public usage and unfettered access superseding property rights. As a society, we have vacillated between representative democracy and oligarchy. The Democratic Spirit of '76 was replaced by an oligarchy of the post-civil war era. This began to be dismantled by a lineage of administrations of both political parties that included both Roosevelts and Woodrow Wilson.

Today, our society slips back toward Oligarchy. We are now experiencing the greatest income disparity between Rich and Poor, and between Wealthy and Middle Class that we have ever had. The trend shows no sign of abating, and an UnAmerican social instability is about to unfold.

In our neighborhood, we live in a microcosm of these forces. Our neighborhood's beaches are our parks. Libby Hill Park is the Beach for our community, and for our city at large. It is a public space enjoyed by all, a place for recreation, reflection and restoration of the human spirit. Those who founded it had direct memory of the ideals of the American Revolution. They established a space for all to enjoy the view of the panorama of the city, and the life-giving water of the James, and intended this space, and this view, to last forever.

Our City, in the most democratic action it has ever taken, engaged the citizens to develop the Downtown Master Plan. Hundreds participated, and they represented all of the stakeholders, from citizens, to businessmen, to developers, and politicians. Charettes and meetings were held, a compromise was hammered out. One of the main tenets was that the River Front, and the view of it (our beach), would be for all to enjoy. The final document was universally accepted and adopted by City Council as the blueprint for Urban Growth and Development.

That was just a few years ago. Unfortunately, our leaders now would rather forget the desires of their constituents. They prefer to make deals that will enrich themselves or their pet projects, money for their campaigns, and the possibility to parlay their current positions into ones of greater power. (So sad that the Director of Planning is unaware of the Plan, or unwilling to do his job and resist the demands of his boss. So sad that Historic Foundations may be so cheaply bought. So sad that our elected representatives ignore their constituents and trade votes instead. So sad that the view that our City protected for 160 years will be traded away and we as citizens get nothing in return).

I sit on a bench at Libby Hill Overlook, and view the sunset. I imagine a future with this view of the river and of the sweep of the city, robbed by a developer, only to be enjoyed by the privileged high rise few. I wince as I picture it. I try to envision another future, with generations enjoying the backdrop of the city view from the overlook as it was when I was married on this spot. I am hopeful that we can preserve that dream for all of us to enjoy. We have spoken as a community overwhelmingly against this project. I still have hope that those elected to represent us will have the decency to act with Honor, and realize that the power they hold is granted by the citizenry. Our forefathers pledged their lives on it.

Happy Summer.

YOUNG RICHMOND WRITERS

By Karen A. Chase

In 2013, James River Writers announced a new initiative. A Youth Advisory Board. Thanks to Phaedra Hise, a delightful Richmond author and JRW Advisory Board Chair, the youth board was developed to reach out to more young people and to encourage a more diverse crowd at JRW events.

Today our Youth Advisory Board has 18 members made up of freshmen to junior boys and girls from area high schools. In July at our Writing Show, our youth members participated in panels and presented poetry. Two of those young board members are featured here with their poetry.

If you're a young writer, or know of one, you can find out more about JRW's Youth Advisory Board and young writer events on our website. Jamesriverwriters.org.

The Earth comes to save
The rocks block the way
And the water waves away
But Earth is still damp
So lightning comes to dry
It lights the ground

CONGRATULATIONS TO HOMETOWN HEROES

Winners of Allen & Allen HOMETOWN HEROES 2014 Award Announced; Law Firm Begins Annual Celebration Series
July 1, 2014 - The personal injury law firm of Allen, Allen, Allen & Allen has announced the winners of the 2014 Allen & Allen HOMETOWN HEROES award in celebration of local acts of kindness and heroism.

"This is our favorite time of the year – a time to honor the citizens of the Commonwealth who define what it takes to be a true hero," said Trent Kerns, President of Allen & Allen. "The annual Allen & Allen HOMETOWN HERO award is our way of thanking and celebrating with first responders, teachers, neighborhood leaders, and more."

Nominations for the annual Allen & Allen HOMETOWN HEROES award were accepted from April 1, 2014 to May 23, 2014. The public was asked to complete a nomination form in honor of their favorite local hero responsible for generating positive and measurable change in the community or in their personal life. The award represents an annual tradition for the local law firm, having honored over 250 individuals since it was created in 2010.

The selected HOMETOWN HEROES represent inspiration to Allen & Allen. They are firemen, policemen, neighborhood leaders, foster parents, disability advocates, teachers, small business owners, and more. Each of the local individuals selected represents a unique and inspiring story of giving in some capacity, either on a large scale or through small everyday acts of kindness. To read about each of the HOMETOWN HEROES visit www.allenandallen.com/hometown-heroes. Allen & Allen also will be featuring a different Hero each day on our Facebook page: facebook.com/allen.and.allen.

Church Hill Treasures - Our Oldest Houses

By Eric S. Huffstutler

ere are graced with historic architecture as no other city in America. Richmond may not have the glamour of Charleston or Savannah, nor the mystique of New Orleans, but it has earned its own place in history. Much of Church Hill, as well as districts throughout the City, fall under historic jurisdictions. Thanks to the dedicated individuals in years past, who strived to preserve and protect our buildings, we have many original homes still standing today.

In 1737 when William Byrd II, along with surveyors William Mayo and James Wood, laid out lots and street grids within Richmond Hill (later to be called Church Hill), the landscape looked very different. The original street boundaries were what are now 17th to 25th and Cary to Broad Streets (then known as D and H Streets).

Col. William Evelyn Byrd III, progenitor of Richmond's founder, was the recipient of an extremely large patrimony. In 1768 he hired a then new attorney named Thomas Jefferson to represent him. Ultimately this would result in the end of their friendship, due to William III's flamboyant lifestyle, combined with his poor financial skills and notorious gambling that lost him his wealth. He was forced to sell most of his Church Hill properties along with the family plantation to pay off debts, which exceeded the proceeds. Col. Richard Adams had purchased 831 acres in 1761 and ten more lots in 1769 from the only other area landowner at the time, Isaac Cole, who had acquired acreage east of the street grid. In 1777, while between land purchases by Adams, Col. Byrd III committed suicide. It is the Adams family who sold much of today's Church Hill property to individuals for building houses and businesses.

A couple of structures from Richmond's beginning are still standing proudly today: the Jacob Ege Stone House on Main Street (now the Edgar Allan Poe Museum) and St. John's Church. By the 1890's to the early 1900's, a trend to move towards the western part of Richmond affected many of the residents of Church Hill, who left their homes for more fashionable areas. The neighborhood deteriorated for the next fifty years until those dedicated to preservation and revitalization stepped in.

Other notable early homes from the mid to late 18th century fall outside the boundaries of Church Hill such as the Capt. John Woodward and the Adam Craig houses. A higher concentration of 19th century architecture falls within Church Hill including: Samuel G. Adams 316 N 27th (1813), Col. Richard Adams 2606 E Marshall (1814), Wills Grocery Store 401 N 27th (1815), Hilary Baker 2302 E Grace (1816), Dr. John Adams later St. John's Parish House 2306 E Grace (1817), James Parkinson 501 N 27th and Carrington Row 2307-11 E Broad both (1818). There are at least three significant early-homes still standing in what is now the "Marshall Ward," and each represents a different form of architecture.

CAPT. ANTHONY TURNER (1779-1819)
2520 E. FRANKLIN ST (lot 138) NE corner 26th and Franklin Streets (Federal Style Brick)

This house may be the oldest house in Church Hill. We do know that the land was purchased in 1803. Research by Mary Wingfield Scott points towards an 1809 construction date, but the original Richmond City Land Book (page 5) of that year shows the property undeveloped. In 1810 (page 11), a house and its out buildings stood with a property value of $4,500. And the first Mutual Assurance insurance policy is dated 1813. Often early records are scarce, so one way historians determine when a structure was built is by deed and tax records noting when the land was developed.

Anthony Turner served as Captain in the War of 1812 and was in charge of one of several companies of the 19th Virginia Militia Regiment assigned to Richmond. Immediately after the war he became a Master Brick Mason with the position Grand Officer of Masonic Lodge - Richmond Royal Arch Chapter No. 10. He was also a Richmond magistrate. Turner showed off his skills in the massive chimneys, rusticated jack arches, and segmental arches over windows. The grounds have been cut to seventy-six feet in depth due to street grading in the 1880's, which makes the setting a little constricted. Still, the commanding location at the top of a steep hill and the double chimneys make this one of the most attractive structures in Church Hill. The house was saved from demolition by the Historic Richmond Foundation in 1957, and the new 2012 owner has been restoring it back to its original glory.

DR. JOHN ADAMS (1773-1825)
2501-2503 E. GRACE ST (lot 129) SW corner 25th and Grace Streets (Brick Double House)

Another possible contender for oldest house in Church Hill is listed as being built in 1810 with a property value of $2,000. It is located on the opposite quadrant of the city block where the Anthony Turner house is located. This is a Double House in Flemish brick bond, saved from demolition by the HRF in 1960. As with the Turner house, the first Mutual Assurance policy shows up in 1813. Thomas Cowles bought it from Dr. Adams in 1814 and until 1877 it belonged to his heirs. He also owned lots 82 and 84, and a mansion is shown built in 1802 on Grace Street between 23rd and 24th (the Adams-Van Lew mansion demolished 1911).

Brick Double Houses were popular among those who built to rent or sell. The layout was two-and-a-half stories, with peaked roof and a chimney made to serve both parts of the building. These houses were inexpensive to build and intended for people of modest means.

2501-2503 E. Grace Street

407-407 1/2 N. 27th Street

A number of them are still standing in Richmond. Dr. John Adams, the son of Col. Richard Adams who owned much of the land in Church Hill, was a medical Doctor who studied medicine in Richmond before traveling to Edinburg, Scotland where he earned his MD in 1796. Dr. Adams became a member of the House of Delegates between 1803 and 1804, was an alderman, and sat on the Richmond Common Council. On April 15, 1819 he was elected Mayor of Richmond and served in that position until his death in 1825.

CHURCH HILL NORTH

The third house in our study falls within Church Hill North, often referred to as "North of Broad." This area was not annexed into Richmond from rural Henrico County until 1867, with another section as late as 1906. Because Henrico did not keep land records prior to 1820, early history of house construction is left to other resources, and Richmond building permits are scant or nonexistent prior to 1920. Almost all Henrico Circuit Superior Court of law, chancery, and circuit court records were destroyed by fire in the evacuation of Richmond on April 3, 1865. Even early maps sometimes fade out over this area. It wasn't until after the War that Broad Street was paved and became a secondary entrance into Church Hill.

CAPT. CHARLES WILLS (1776-1820)

407 - 407 1/2 N 27TH ST (lot 79 extended map) East side N 27th. (Federal Wood Frame)

The oldest structure North of Broad Street, and the oldest frame house in the Church Hill historic district, is the

Sketch of 407-407 1/2 N. 27th Street as it looked when built in 1812

Capt. Charles Wills mansion built in 1812. Stylistically, it is atypical of the Federal Style. It is a two-and-a-half story, three-bay, frame house with a high central unit and lower flanking wings. The lot was purchased in 1810. A quarter of that city block was also owned by county clerk IZARD BACON WHITLOCK (1779-1825), who built a similar house from Shed Town brick in 1817 facing Marshall Street, where Pritchard Brothers is now (demolished in 1930). The North wing of the Wills mansion was divided up as a separate residence in 1904 by Joyce Ann Richwine (1844-1927). Second floors were added to both wings as it remains today. It is also one of the earliest homes to have indoor plumbing, dating back to the 1860's. Capt. Charles Wills served in the War of 1812 under 19th (Ambler's) Regiment and the 2nd (Ballowe's) Regiment VA Militia. It is believed that he was made a Captain after the war in the local Camp Holly Militia in Richmond. He became a wealthy grocer merchant who owned many properties, including a house and store built by 1805 on Main Street between 17th and 18th by the Farmer's Market. Another store built in 1815 is still standing on the corner of 27th and Marshall as the oldest commercial building in Richmond.

The dwelling fell into blight after becoming a boarding house in the 1940's and was in part abandoned and shuttered by the late 1970's. Saved by the HRF in 1981 and restored in 1986, it is the anchor house for the district's historic designation and a rare surviving window into our history of wooden frame homes.

A study about North Church Hill and related Shed Town is sorely needed. ■

Hot Topic: Communications from Local Residents on the Pear Street Condo Development

Members of the community have expressed their concerns in several outlets in the recent weeks - here are a few:

To: Richmond City Council
From: Marilyn Stroh

July 17, 2014

To my esteemed City Council Members and it's president Mr. Samuels.

I write to you today to ask you to NOT approve the Special Use Permit for the Pear Street Project.

In 2008 you approved and the city adopted a Downtown Master Plan for Richmond. A plan two years in the making, with taxpayers dollars and much public input. The Pear Street project is in total disregard of that Master Plan. What a message you send to your constituents if you ignore it and allow this SUP to go forth.

This Libby Hill Park is a very special place. I invite you come and visit and see for yourself just how many people from all over come for the view, to become engaged, to watch the river rise and fall, to watch the migrating birds who follow the river, to hold their wedding here and even have memorial services for loved ones, lost. I walk here everyday, no matter what the weather to drink in this spectacular view.

I remember seeing a man sitting almost in meditation one especially beautiful evening. When I caught his eye we agreed this was the spot that brought you as close to God as one could get, in Richmond. Don't spoil that for us. Come and sit. You'll see.

I left Philadelphia twelve years ago to make Church Hill and Richmond my home. In Pennsylvania my home growing up was built in 1830. The home I left to come here was built in 1860. My house on the Hill was built in 1857 and is on the National Registry of Historic Places. So I understand historic venues with rich history and I understand the importance of respecting and preserving them. Be they buildings or views.

So I must speak out against the distortion of the view from Libby Hill. For in a few years, if this SUP is allowed, visitors will look at us and ask "how did you let this happen?" It's all on your watch. Yours and mine.

I urge you to resist the lure of the all mighty tax dollar and to keep to the Downtown Master Plan and it's height restriction of 5 stories. Vote down the special use permit for the Pear Street project.

Most sincerely,
Marilyn Stroh

Residents Write to Richmond Times-Dispatch on the Pear Street Condo Development

Letter to the Editor:

Posted: Tuesday, July 8, 2014 10:30 pm Published July 9: Say no to this monstrosity

Editor, Times-Dispatch:

I appreciated your coverage of the “contested high-rise condo project” near Libby Hill. I am a longtime resident of Church Hill and one of those who oppose the cementation of our historical heritage.

I came to Richmond 40 years ago from my native Italy where, for some time, I lived in one of the most beautiful cities of the world — Florence. Richmond was new to me, and I was looking for a spot that, in some way, would remind me of Florence. On finding Libby Hill Park in historical Church Hill, I fell in love with the neighborhood. I was impressed by its natural, harmonious historical setting like Florence along the Arno River. The park is an asset for Richmond, and it is in the public interest to protect it from absurd, ugly cementation.

The development of the city is important. Public interest requires that it should be done without wasting the natural setting and historical heritage of the city. A compromise should be reached exclusively on the basis of public interest to avoid a mushrooming 16-story cement box that would infringe on the landscape. I hope the City Council will vote no on July 14 to the high-rise condo project as it is proposed. It would be advisable that developers withdraw the project and present a new one that respects the public interest, in accordance with the downtown master plan and the will of the majority of the Church Hill community and park users.

Antonio Masullo. Richmond.

Letter to the Editor:

Posted: Saturday, July 12, 2014 10:30 pm Published July 13, 2014 City Council must say no to condo plans

Editor, Times-Dispatch:

Libby Hill Park has many users from Greater Richmond and beyond, but few know that its historic and natural landscape and panoramic river and city vistas are endangered. Many are familiar with the baseball stadium issues, but few know about the proposal for a massive 16-story condominium at the bottom of Libby Hill that would also require the sale of city land. City Council will consider the proposal and land sale on July 14.

The developers have ignored the city’s Downtown Master Plan and its River Plan. Inexplicably, so did the Richmond Planning Commission. Why ignore these plans crafted by collaboration and contributions of hundreds of Richmond citizens at meetings organized by the city?

After more than 50 years of careful preservation, now — in one fell swoop — the splendid natural landscape and views of Libby Hill Park and the setting of the city’s oldest neighborhood could change forever. This high-rise would mar the landscape and vistas. The view of many would become the view of few. Why grant this privilege to just a few? Development is very important for Richmond, but City Council should vote no to the high-rise proposal and the sale of city land that benefits the developer, but deprives Richmond and its residents of something exceptional. The developers should return with a proposal for an architecturally lower building that fits with the area, conforms to the Downtown Plan and preserves the setting of a treasured park.

Barbara Cotter. Richmond.

Church Hill Historic Plaque Program 2014

The Historic Plaque program is voluntary and the plaques have been approved both by Historic Richmond Foundation (HRF) and Committee for Architecture Review (CAR). The plaques create a connectivity and charm for our community and tell the story of the history, people and the architecture of the home. Plaques are made of durable composite materials, (weather proof and sun resistant). The plaques come in three sizes and have white lettering on a black background. Text should be approximately 60-65 words.

The sizes are:
Small (12.5X16) $200,
Medium (15X19) $250
Large (18.5X23.5) $300.

The plaque text can be accomplished and approved in two ways:

- HRF researches and provides a script to the owner for approval. Cost is $50 up front which is a down payment and part of the final price.
- The owner researches and sends HRF their desired text, citations and down payment of $50. HRF reviews and approves the text. Again, the down payment is included in the final price.

Plaques take four weeks and balance of payments are due when the order is placed with the manufacturer. When the plaque is ready, HRF contacts the owner and has a technician affix the plaque where the owner designates, (this is included in the total cost).

Historic plaques improve the value of homes and the neighborhood. In Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, and Huntsville, AL., the Chambers of Commerce and League of Realtors, estimate that historic plaques increase property value by $2,000 - $4,000.

Questions or concerns about the historic plaque program should be directed to:

Plein Air in Church Hill

By Karen Jones

On June 26th the CHA hosted breakfast and a dinner for this year's Plein Air Richmond artists. Thirty-four artists from across the country and Canada (including eight from Virginia, some of whom were from Richmond) participated in this year's event which was put on by the Brazier Gallery and benefited the Richmond Symphony Orchestra. The day began with a light breakfast in the beautiful backyard of Robbie and Bette Dillehay overlooking the James River. There is nothing like that view (in all directions!!!) to get someone's creative juices flowing. Many wonderful works of art were created all over our neighborhood including the year's grand prize winner which was painted on Libby Terrace! After a day of painting in the Church Hill area, the artists, some of their family members, and gallery personnel gathered at St. John's Church meeting hall for dinner and a chance to socialize and get to know each other better. Following a greeting from CHA President Jeff Cooper everyone enjoyed a lovely buffet followed by a scrumptious dessert (the strawberry tiramisu from Dinamo was to die for!).

This was a wonderful opportunity to showcase our neighborhood to a creative community that lives and paints (through other Plein Air events) all across the country and even other parts of the world. They all thoroughly enjoyed their time here and the hospitality of the CHA and the thank yous were numerous and effusive. They will take their experiences here and spread the word about how the beauty of the place and the warmth of the people make Church Hill such a gem.

Benedicte Whitworth and I decorated the tables and prepared most of the food ourselves. It was a labor of love, but we would have been in no way successful without abundant help from others. We would very much like to thank:

- Robbie and Bette Dillehay - for the use of their wonderful yard
- Cathy Hayden - for help with breakfast
- Sandra Horton - for help with breakfast (donuts!) and dinner
- Malou Rawls - For help with setting up and with dinner
- Karen and Mark Rankin - for being excellent wine servers and all around helpers
- Karen and Jeff Cooper - for donating some wonderful wine from their vineyard
- Ryan Jones - for grilling the pork
- Sub Rosa and Lamplighter Coffee - for donating coffee
- Union Hill Market and Black Hand Coffee - for donating coffee
- John Whitworth - for organizing the logistics of the event and the day
- Laura Inscocoe - for arranging the use of the parish hall
- St. John's Church - always a generous neighbor, making it possible for us to play host in such a wonderful and historic space.

The grand prize winner

We all are looking forward to the opportunity to do this again. Great place, great people, great guests, great art - what more could you ask for!

Thanks to everyone who had a part in hosting the painters in Church Hill during Plein Air Richmond. It is a favorite destination for us, both because of the beautiful scenery and wonderful welcome we receive. Both the food and hospitality were superb. Good luck with the petition to stop the high rise in your area. Best, Dawn Whitelaw.

Church Hill Association Membership Meeting

The May Membership Meeting of the Church Hill Association (“CHA”) was held on May 20, 2014 in the Parish Hall of St. John’s Church, and was called to order at 7:03 PM by the President, Geoffrey Cooper.

The president called for and received consent for approval of Agenda, then welcomed new members and visitors, including Joanne Savage of East Franklin, Ed Jewett, Clerk of the Richmond Circuit Court, and Don Coleman, the 7th District representative on the Richmond Public School Board.

The president called for approval of Minutes for February, March and April. Their approval was moved and seconded, then approved by unanimous consent.

Past president John Johnson reminded the membership that the June membership meeting would be in the form of a picnic, not a business meeting, and he invited members to come to the park, bring food and drinks as well as a chair. The picnic is to start at 6:00 PM on June 17 in Reed Square. He also reported on the upcoming Alley Rally and clean-up, to be held June 21. Members were encouraged to sign up for the Park House (first) shift from 8:30-1030 AM, or for the second shift to meet at EDI Center (near Roosevelt’s), which is scheduled to run from 10:45 -1:00 PM.

Officer Rosotto of the Richmond police department gave an update of criminal activities for the period of April 15-May 20, 2014, and noted that violent crimes remain down, and that residential incidences were 2 in number vs. 1 in the previous period but remain very low. The incidents involve pots and plants, fishing rods taken in the day time when not secured. A mower was taken from a shed (and there was uncertainty over whether it was locked). Residents are urged to call if they see someone unexpected in an alley, and to a get clothing description. What was reported as a “robbery” was a known party/money dispute.

School Board member Don Coleman was recognized to speak on matters involving City Schools. Mr. Coleman stated that he is a life resident of the East End, and chairman of the board in addition to being the 7th District Representative. He suggested inviting Dr. Bedden, the new superintendent to speak to a future meeting of CHA. He stated that being a great city is connected to finding a way to having a school system that meets our children’s needs. Budget-wise, he said RPS “finally got everything we asked for.” In recent years after great progress in school test results, RPS didn’t make the changes needed to keep up with the changing standards. As a result, the City went from being a high-performing to among the lowest performing systems, and needs to rebuild that progress. He reminded CHA that the planned International Baccalaureate program at Chimborazo Elementary will be the whole school, not a specialty program within the school. At Armstrong, community partners are coming forward to explore and create a “freshman academy” to reduce attrition and help children prepare to stay engaged and enrolled through graduation. Finally, Mr. Coleman asked members and Church Hill residents to consider ways to be involved with RPS.

Eric Steigleder was recognized to brief the membership on Richmond Day festivities to commemorate the visit of Captain Christopher Newport and a party of explorers to what is now Richmond on May 24 1607, where he hoped to find a path to the Pacific. Events will take place in Libby Hill Park on Saturday May 23, and represent the 33rd year of ‘twinning’ with Richmond on Thames, where similar observances are planned.

Andrew Terry, a pastor at Richmond Hill, our neighbor 22 and E. Grace, updated CHA on the community-led “Virginia Rapid Transit” initiative. He stated that Metro Richmond is #44 in country in size, but 92/100 in public transit access. Community groups are proposing rapid transit, dedicated lanes, regular routes, using bus systems. Bus Rapid Transit (“BRT”) uses dedicated lanes and is 1/10th of cost of traditional big city systems. He reported that Cleveland has 7 miles in place, supporting billions in economic growth, promoting access to education and jobs. He indicated that a Federal grant for $30 million is possible, with a state set aside 11, and the BRT promoters are seeking or –proposing $8 million from localities. A first phase could be operational 2017. Metro Richmond’s BRT project is reportedly the only project endorsed by the Governor; and supporters are optimistic that the Federal grant will become available. Mr. Terry indicated that October is the approval time frame, for a first line, going from Rockett’s Landing to Willow Lawn, beginning on Main Street and primarily running on Broad Street from the CBD to the near West End.
